

Sinclair Broadcasting's ability to use the public airwaves for free carries with it the legal obligation to serve the public. Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of how a media consolidation serves its own desires rather than that of the public. It is clear that Sinclair Broadcasting fears no retribution from the FCC. The FCC is to ensure that the public is being served. I ask that the FCC either stop Sinclair Broadcasting from airing the anti-Kerry documentary or insist that Sinclair Broadcasting present a pro-Kerry documentary such as "Going Upriver" in an equally watched time slot. I urge the FCC to pursue this on behalf of the American people.
